EDUCATION CHANGED CANDACE VALENZUELA'S LIFE

So she dedicated her career to helping our children succeed.

When Candace Valenzuela was a child, her family lost their home after her mom finished serving our nation in the Army. She slept in shelters and in a kiddie pool outside of a gas station when she and her mother escaped from domestic abuse.

She worked hard in school, becoming a First Distinguished Graduate and earning a full scholarship to college. Valuing the opportunities that education was able to afford her, Candace became an educator for special needs students and eventually a trustee of the Carrollton-Farmers Branch Independent School District board so that she could fight for our children.

As a school board trustee,
Candace fought to:

- Increase teacher salaries
- Prevent gun violence in schools
- Expand STEM programs
